Temporary Resource Becomes Direct Hire

When the Director of Information Management of this major law firm contacted Cadence Group for a temporary resource while the firm recruited for its Library Assistant opening, we quickly found an experienced person to fill the gap.

Within a month the firm realized this was the best person for the position because she was well trained, knew the culture and already fit in. Six weeks later she was hired.

Cadence Group Supplies Ideal Candidate

Cadence Group had been working with the library of this news and entertainment giant for over a year when the company asked Cadence Group to do a full library assessment. In addition, Cadence Group was to create a job description for a newly created position that would maintain the current workload and take the company to the next level.

Once Cadence Group shared the results of its search, the library realized the Cadence Group person already in the research support role was the ideal candidate to run the library. He was interviewed and hired two weeks later.

Qualified Candidate Soon Promoted

Cadence Group helped this prestigious law firm hire a Library Assistant quickly. Human Resources interviewed all the candidates we presented and hired one after the second interview. Within 30 days he was on board and has since been promoted to a professional position, Archival Records Management.

Fast Turnaround – Quality Candidate

This global law firm contacted Cadence Group on a Friday afternoon about an opening for a Conflict Analyst, and Cadence Group presented a qualified candidate on Monday afternoon. The firm interviewed him Wednesday and offered him the position Friday. The candidate started working the following week and was hired a month later.

Interim Staffing Solution

When Human Resources in this global law firm called Cadence Group to say its Librarian had left after 18 years with the firm, we did more than present candidates for the professional position. Cadence Group offered an interim solution to fill the gap while the firm interviewed and found the right candidate.

This interim solution gave the firm more time to interview and find the right person while the current workload was being maintained by Cadence Group's qualified temporary candidate.
